

GRAHAM MACKENZIE

OBOE

Graham Mackenzie is the principal oboist of the Windsor Symphony Orchest. He also performs frequently as principal oboist with the Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony, and in other professional engagements in southern Ontario. In addition, he was a member of the National Repertory Orchestra in 2007 and the National Youth Orchestra of Canada in 2005 and 2006. He obtained his Bachelor of Music from Wilfrid Laurier University in 2007, studying oboe with James Mason. While studying, he was the winner of numerous competitions, including the concerto competitions of the Wilfrid Laurier Symphony Orchestra and the Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony. An avid chamber musician, he has performed in many Kitchener-Waterloo Chamber Music Society concerts and has attended the Scotia Festival of Music, Windfest, and the Domaine Forget Music Academy. When he's not making music, Graham enjoys running, yoga, Frisbee, expanding his culinary horizons, word games, and traveling.
